

Carleton College

Carleton Digital Commons

Covid-19 Archive: Documents

Covid-19 Archive: Items

4-27-2020

Max Bremer - Written Story

Max Bremer

Carleton College

Marcella Lees

Carleton College

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.carleton.edu/covid19archive_documents

Recommended Citation

Bremer, Max and Lees, Marcella, "Max Bremer - Written Story" (2020). Covid-19 Archive: Documents. 100.
https://digitalcommons.carleton.edu/covid19archive_documents/100

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Covid-19 Archive: Items at Carleton Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Covid-19 Archive: Documents by an authorized administrator of Carleton Digital Commons. For more information, please contact digitalcommons.group@carleton.edu.

If there is one thing I feel most strongly like I've missed, it's the last term together with my friends at Carleton. It sounds cliché to say it like that, but we really didn't realize when we said goodbye at the end of this last term that it might very well be the last time we'd be able to spend time together. My relationship was very suddenly a long-distance one, my a-cappella group was in an instant disbanded, my plans to start a podcast with my best friend cut short. It all happened in such a short span of time that none of us really had a time to stop and process it.

The flipside to this, however, is how we've all made things work since then. I call my girlfriend once a day, the a-cappella group got together to play games online, and my friend and I are still recording that podcast over calls. It honestly makes me optimistic, the fact that so many have made their lives function despite such apocalyptic conditions. I don't think we'll ever get back to normal, but then again, when do we ever?